

Erik- Sweden

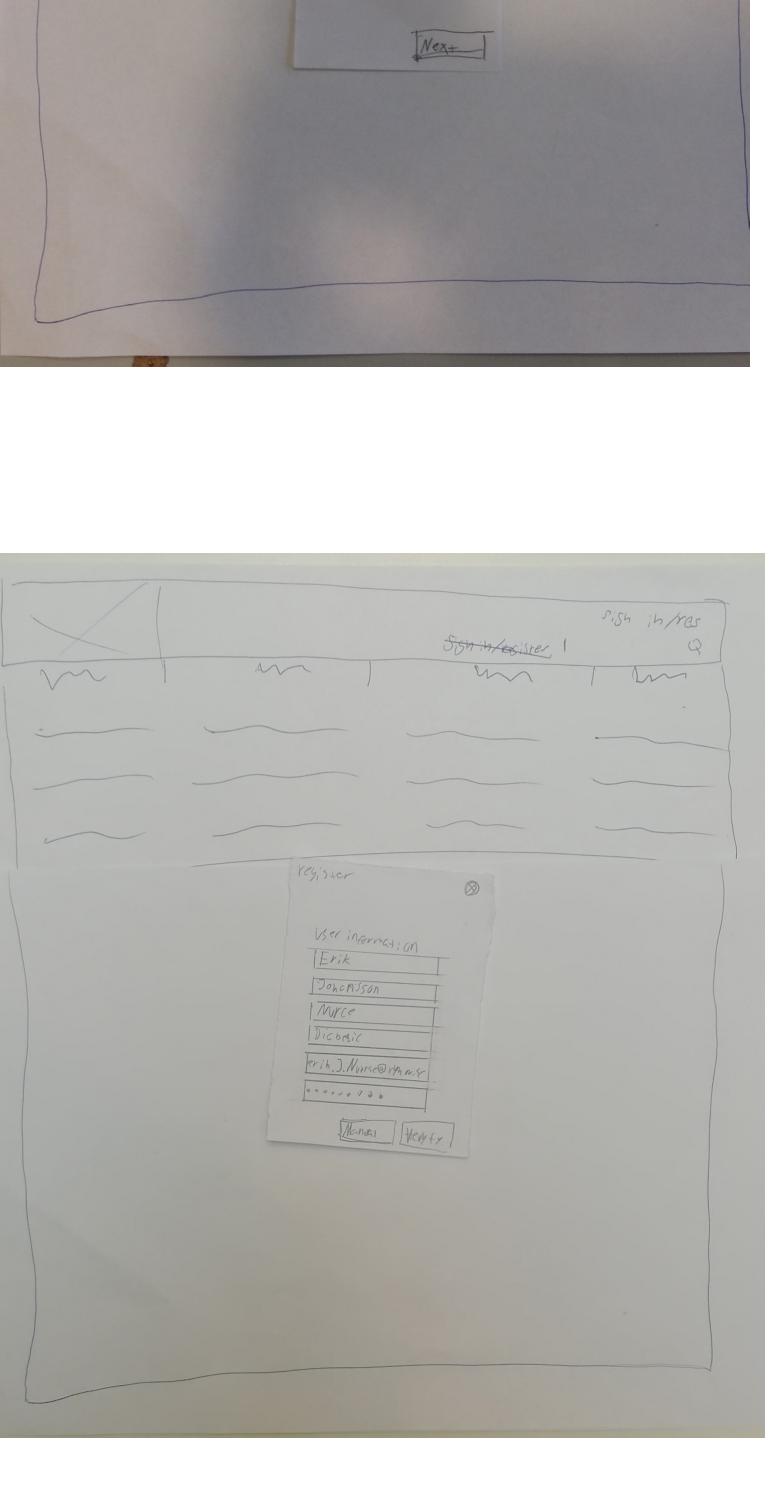

He hovers over the menu.

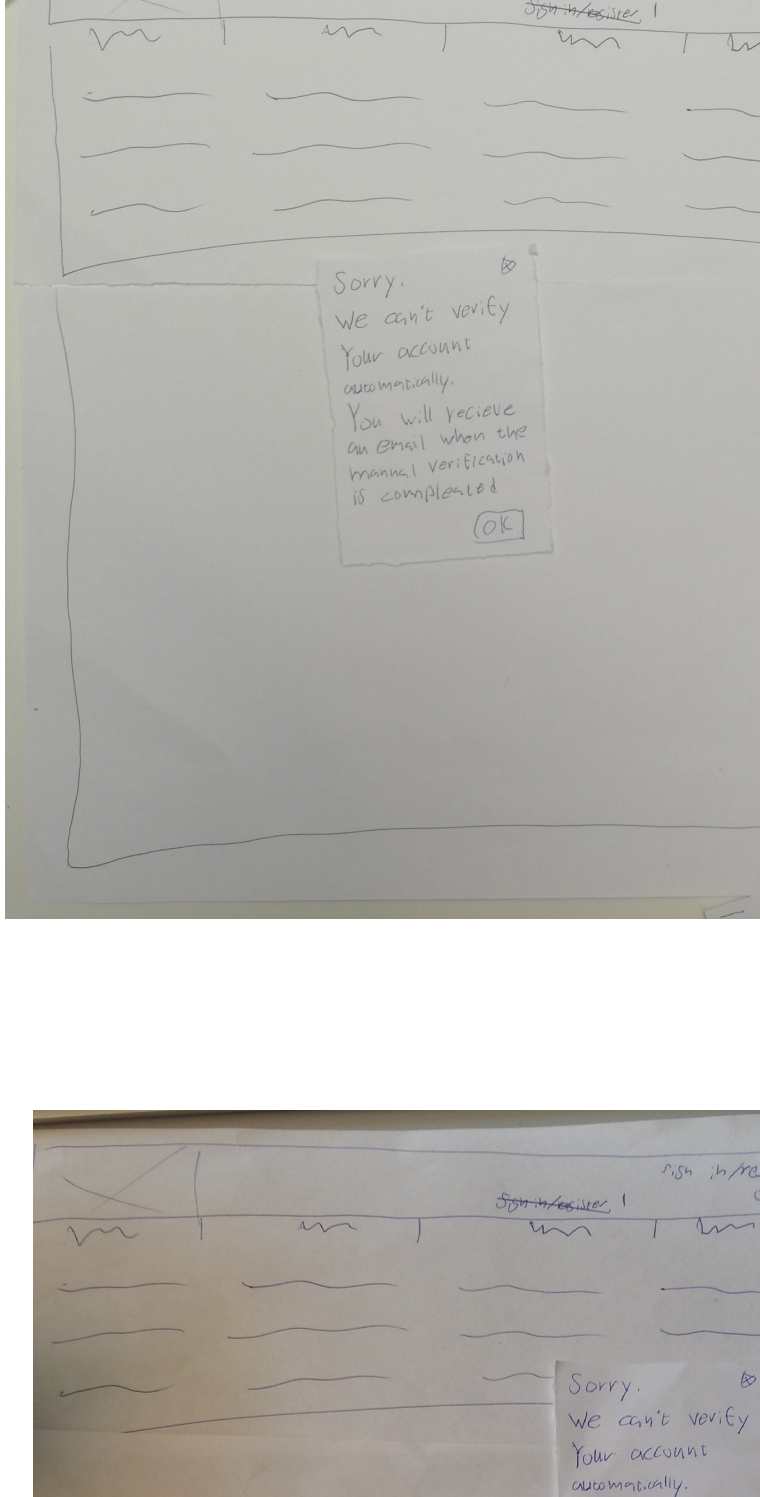

The mega menu is revealed as he clicks the Education and clicks on e-learning

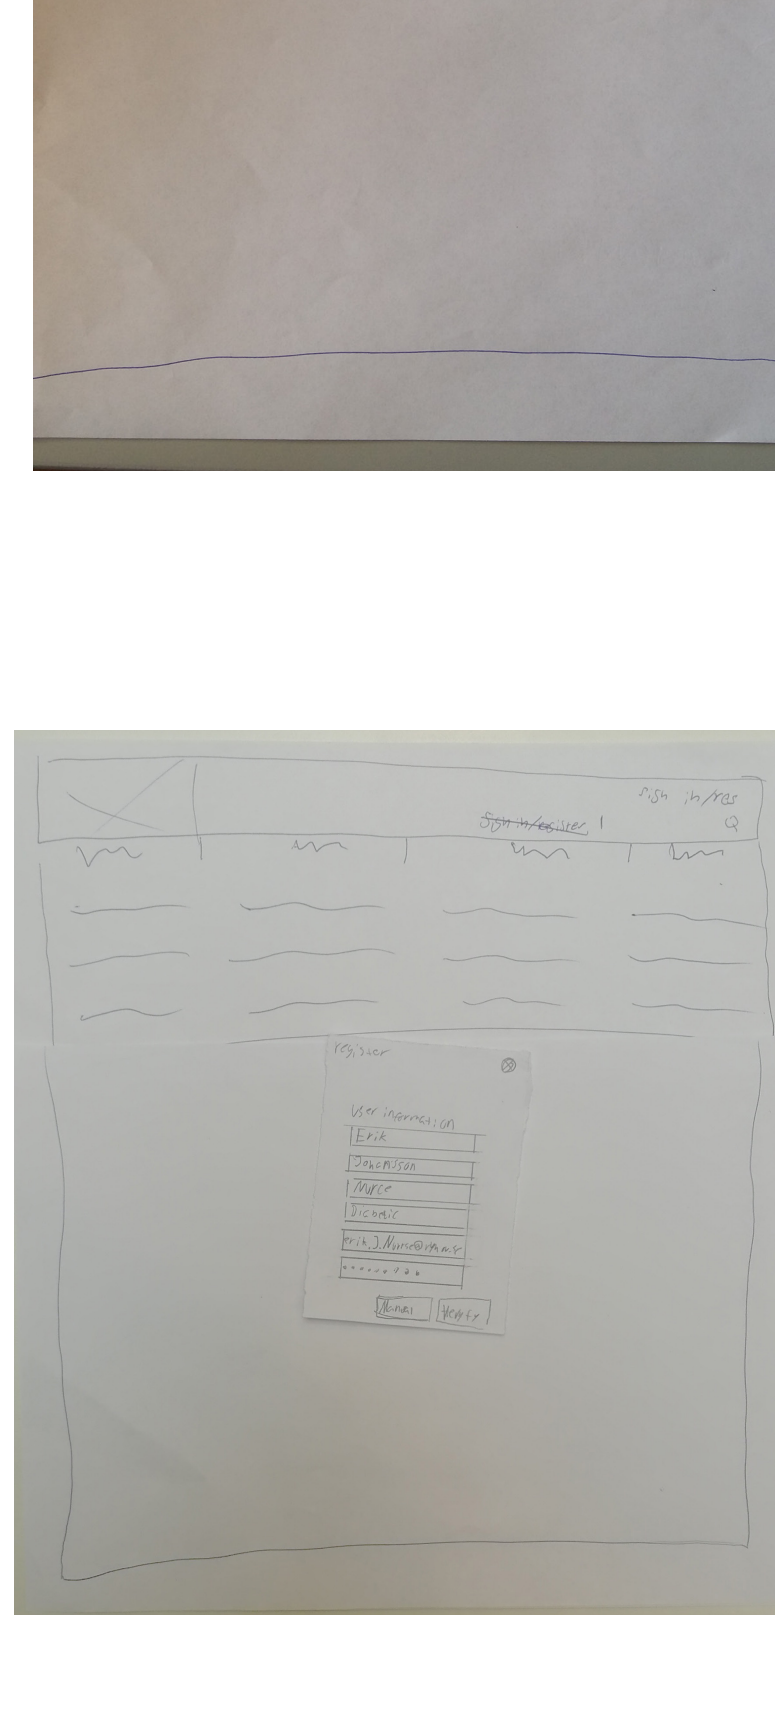

A prompt lets him that he need to sign in/register in order to view content

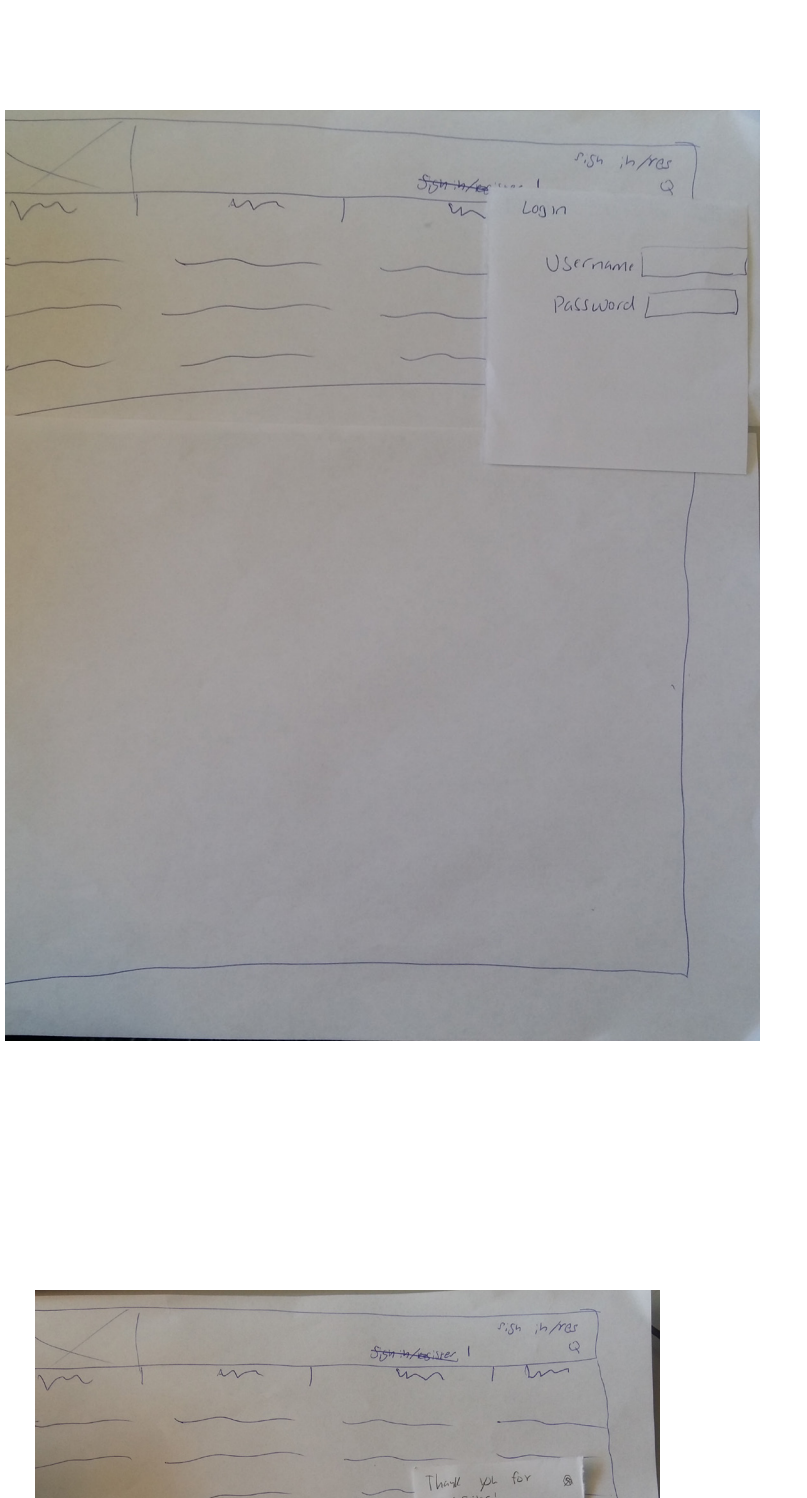

Once he clicks SURE button, a question of what country he is from pops up.

He Selects Sweden

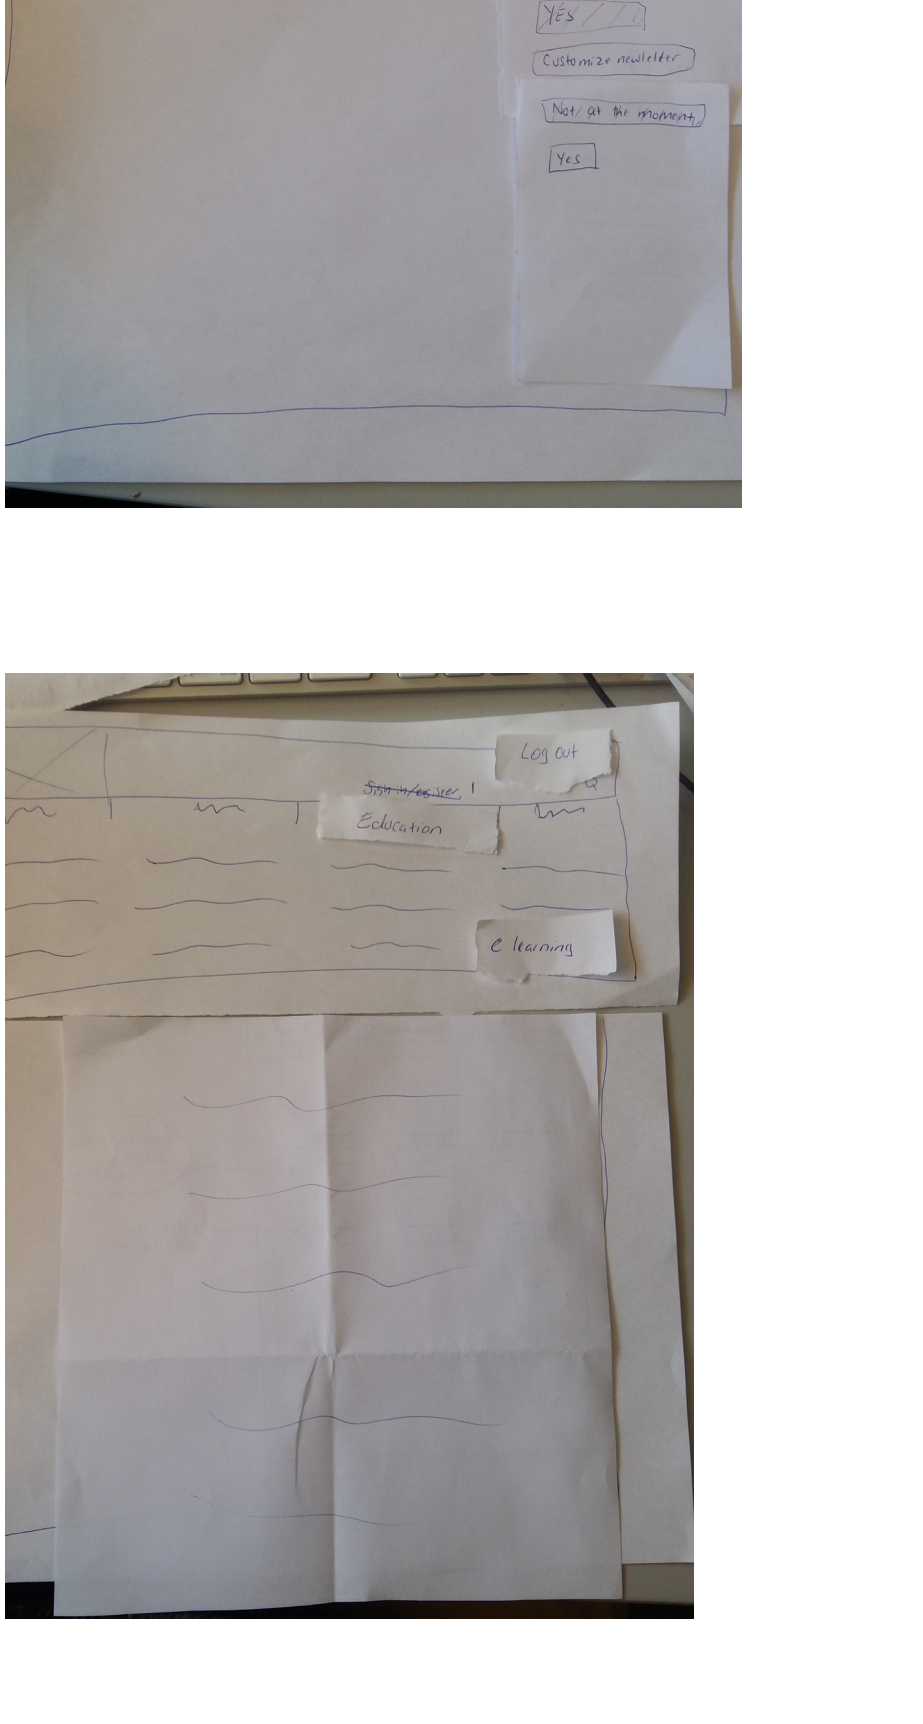

and then click on NEXT button

Hefills in his First name and Last name in different boxes. On profession dropdown menu he selects his Profession. Nurse then his Specialty

He puts his email as the username and picks a Password then he presses on VERIFY

A pop up message states "sorry we can't verify your account automatically. You will receive an email when the manual verification is completed"

He is flabagasted! He clicks ok.

He checks on the information he put in. Now all the fields are outlined. And there is option to MANUAL verify himself

A few days later he gets an email saying he is verified. He clicks on a link in his email that takes him to Login page where he inputs his username and password.

He logs in

Pop up message saying that "You has successfully registered an account" comes up. And below it is another question of if they wish to receive newsletter or not.

He clicks YES and the custom box pops up to ask if they wish to customise the newsletters. He clicks not at the moment. The whole box eas out of his screen.

He click on button education on the page and then e-learning to begin browsing

He drinks beer

